

From last year's E-Lab edition

"I was drawn to the E-Lab because it offered a unique opportunity to explore complex legal concepts from diverse international perspectives. The collaborative spirit and inter-university exchange significantly broadened my understanding, making it an invaluable and truly inspiring part of my academic journey.

"E-lab is rooted in the rights of the individual and their application in everyday life. Participating in the E-Lab has been a guarantee of cultural, legal, emotional, and linguistic enrichment.

The course, entirely conducted in English, fosters dialogue between cultures, religions, sexual orientations, and social customs, making it easy to understand that humanity is not black and white but an infinite palette of colors, where differences meet to enrich one another. [...]

Participation in E-lab promotes the development of critical thinking, reasoning skills, and mental flexibility, enabling students to broaden their perspective and engage with the world in all its diverse facets through exploration, experimentation, and dialogue".
